

Phidex's consultants are of the highest calibre, where we recruit exceptional graduates with relevant experience in IT or Energy. It is our consultants who deliver our stand-out results on each client project, optimise the performance of our highly rated software applications and work as an integral part of our clients' organisation with clear and aligned objectives. Our consulting engagements enables our clients to work closely with our highly valued team, to benefit from their productivity and share in their knowledge.

Settlements management and reconciliation

Strategic settlements management and reconciliation is a core Phidex service which has resulted in millions of pounds of benefit to our clients.

Due to the complexity of the data we process and visualise and the financial potential it contains, it is little wonder why our services are so valued and retained by our clients.

Managed services

The Phidex team are seasoned professionals with an in depth knowledge of energy supply operations. For short to medium term assignments which will fill your capability or resource void, contact Phidex about utilising our team.

Previous operational roles include, flex and fixed price, billing services, P&L analysis, application testing and non-commodity optimisation.

Financial reporting

With fluctuating prices and energy periods being billed, reconciled and re-billed, achieving an assured value of energy purchases in any given consumption period or tax point is challenging. We work closely with industry colleagues to ensure we process their data flows correctly. For accurate financial reporting, separating energy charges into granular consumption periods, tax points and at segment or site level, get in touch. Our transparent reporting services are trusted by our clients and approved by their auditors.

Regulatory market entry consultation

Phidex have partnered with our clients to plan and de-risk numerous successful entries into the UK Energy Market. Through the accreditation process and interaction with third party vendors we provide clarity and realism to this journey. Our highly experienced consultants have been engaging with industry colleagues for many years on a multitude of high profile and often technical matters. Use Phidex to strengthen your market position.
